

Stories

A poem by Nick LeForce

You can give me
all the reasons why you came and they will not account for why you are here

there is more life
in "once upon a time"
than in all the logic of the last five thousand years

I will never know you
by your name
or occupation
I will never know you
by your degrees
or your income
I will only know you
by the stories of
what has shaped your soul
what moves you
through your days
and what dreams
you hold precious

so come
 sit with me
tell me the tales
of the wars
 you have waged
the hearts
 you have broken
the loves
 you have lost
the lessons
 you have learned the trials and triumphs in a life lived
as only you can live it told as only you can tell it

Nick LeForce, MRA, CHT, is a hypnotherapist and NLP trainer who has over 25 years of experience in the field of human communication and development. He is the author of Healing the Hurts of the Heart: Breaking the Shackles of Emotional Debt.

